Short Bio

Long Bio

Zack King, a fiercely independent guitarist and singer-songwriter, escaped the harsh winters of Minnesota for the perpetual summers of the West Coast, both physically and mentally. Music has always been his refuge, and in Los Angeles, he channeled his angst into songwriting. His single, "What's on your Mind?," reflects the journey he's made. Facing mental health struggles, Zack took a bold step by seeking therapy and creating his own mental health and music community, aimed at defying the stigma surrounding mental health. Through this, he discovered a new purpose and direction, and his music has evolved to become more honest, vulnerable, and authentic. Blending punk influences with a pop-rock sound, he has created a truly unique sound. Now, ready to share his music and message with a wider audience, Zack has assembled a band and is performing throughout the LA region and beyond, showcasing his new songs. His mission is to use his music to spread the message that mental health is a communal challenge that can be tackled together.
